  - ii) And attend the BOR meetings
  - iii) The Treasure and fellow Kiva Club Member went over the 11 demands presented to UNM and the BOR there are as follows

1. Reconstruction of a Native Cultural Center

Where Dane Smith Hall stands today, there once stood a building that housed ethnic resource centers such as American Indian Student services (AISS), African American Student Services, Hispanic Student Services (currently El Centro De La Raza) etc. After it was demolished all the resource centers were relocated to Mesa Vista Hall. The relocation of AISS brought forth protests fronted by Kiva Club and other student orgs. There was a call to rebuild the student resource centers, and UNM responded with the intent to do so. Currently no efforts to reconstruct the student resource centers outside Mesa Vista Hall have been made.

2. More Native Faculty and Faculty of Color at the Administrative Level

Native faculty and faculty of color are presently and historically underrepresented in the upper echelons of the University administration. Having diverse leadership at the Regent's, University, and department level is necessary because while one's identity doesn't necessarily guarantee particular politics, those who are subjected to racism, sexism, and colonial violence are more likely to recognize and intervene in those dynamics and better advocate for change. Lack of Native representation at the higher administrative level in a school with a high Native student population further marginalizes and works towards the disappearance of Native peoples.

3. A Cluster Hire for Native Studies Faculty

A cluster hire involves hiring multiple scholars. We are asking for a cluster hire of Native American Studies faculty to be housed in Native American Studies and other complimentary departments and programs like Women's Studies, American Studies, Anthropology, History, etc. in order to promote interdisciplinary research that centers Native liberation. A cluster hire is a way to advance faculty diversity, help foster a shift in the anti-Indian culture of the University, and create a critical mass of scholars that can promote institutional change across fields. For more on cluster hires see:

4. Higher Education Council of Tribal Leaders Established at the Board of Regents Level

We demand the formation of a higher education council of Tribal leaders, which would consist of selected leadership from the Tribes. This would give New Mexico Tribes a voice in how UNM policy affects their citizens attending and working at the University, as well as a decisive role in how Tribal scholarship money is spent and allocated, currently the University does not track the monies that is processed from tribal nations that support students and the University, nor does it identify the self-determination status of tribal nations. A council of Tribal leaders would allow for an anti-colonial approach in the way policy affecting Native Students is implemented. This contributes to the goal of a restructuring of UNM's administration in a way that denounces ongoing racism and imperialism.

5. Formal Adoption of the United Nation Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples as UNM Policy

The United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) is designed to recognize the sovereignty and self-determination of Indigenous peoples across the world. Indigenous peoples have been erased from history and are not adequately acknowledged at UNM. New Mexico has 22 federally recognized tribes and over 200 tribes located in the state. The University also has a high number of Native students. When the Associated Student of UNM (ASUNM) passed resolution 7S calling for the recognition of "Indigenous Peoples Day of Resistance and Resilience," UNDRIP was included as a demand demonstrating student support. UNDRIP is a formal recognition of Indigenous rights as distinct from, yet informed by, internationally recognized universal human rights.

6. Abolition of Racist Imagery and Cultural Appropriation

The Board of Regents policy of Historic Preservation states that all buildings, landscapes and places or objects of historic significance be preserved and protected." However, the racist imagery and cultural appropriation of art and objects uphold and celebrate conquest and genocide across campus. Symbolic violence translates into material violence, reinforcing an atmosphere that can make Native students feel unsafe and isolated in their homelands.

7. Tuition Waiver for Students from Federally Recognized Tribes

Fort Lewis College, located in Southern Colorado, was once a federal off-reservation boarding school. In 1911, it was turned into a state high school and the deed from the federal government to the state government for the new high school came with two conditions: the land would remain as an educational institution and was "to be maintained as an institution of learning to which Indian students will be admitted free of tuition and on an equality with white students." (Act of 61st Congress, 1911). These conditions have been honored as a part of the Fort Lewis school mission statement over the past century. The tuition waiver was put in place in order to establish ownership of the land and buildings. Today over 1,000 Native students attend Fort Lewis, or 27% of the student body. These students represent 146 federally recognized tribes in the US and 46 states. Students from New Mexico utilize the greatest amount of tuition waivers.

8. Permanent Funding and Space Allocation for Nizhoni Days Powwow

The Nizhoni Days Pow-wow is New Mexico's oldest running Pow-wow, pre-dating and even inspiring the "World's Largest Pow-wow" of the Gathering of Nations Pow-wow. Since 1955, Nizhoni Days Pow-wow honors a community-based celebration that showcases and promotes Native culture and identity through dance, singing, and drumming exhibitions, and vendor arts and crafts market. Upholding the foundational tenet of traditional pow-wow community-oriented custom, the Nizhoni Days Pow-wow is an inclusive, free all-day event, featuring a no-contest pow-wow, and community dinner that is offered free-of-charge to all visitors and participants. It is with heartfelt passion and excitement that we continue this beautiful ceremonial legacy for our community at the University's Johnson Field. The Nizhoni Days Pow-wow is run entirely by donation, and every year since its founding, Kiva Club must request appropriations from ASUNM and undergo the process of reserving Johnson field and a back up space on campus. We demand that the Nizhoni Days Pow-wow have permanent funding and a permanent space allocation at Johnson field and an indoor space to allow a venue of 1,000 people.

9. Recognition of Indigenous Peoples Day of Resistance and Resilience

In Spring 2015, students called for and wrote an "Indigenous Peoples Day of Resistance and Resilience" resolution in order to combat glorification of settler colonialism at the University campus. This resolution was unanimously supported by the ASUNM senators and had enormous support from the student body. Despite the resolution being forwarded to the Board of Regents, they made no public acknowledgement of it nor did they use their power to officially establish Indigenous Peoples Day of Resistance and Resilience on University calendars. This refusal to recognize and implement the demands of the resolution looked absurd when that same year the City of Albuquerque passed a similar resolution at the city level.

10. Recognition and Tracking of American Indian Political Identity According to Federal Standards

American Indian is not a racial identity, but a federally recognized political identity and should be tracked as such (when) Native students, faculty, staff, and employees are tracked statistically, the numbers are artificially lower because Native is seen as a racial or ethnic group. Additionally, when Native people are classified as a racial group, they are subjected to civil rights law which has and continues to deny and interrupt the particular political demands of decolonization. Native is better understood as a political status and should be tracked as such to allow more accurate understandings of representation of Native populations at the University.

11. Repatriation of Ancestors and Sacred Items to Sacred Spaces and Tribes

The existence of the Maxwell Museum and the Hibben Center was made possible through the unethical sourcing and extraction of Native sacred items and ancestors. Our ancestors are not artifacts nor are our ceremonial materials. A large amount of the university's collection is made up of items, materials, and ancestors taken without consent from various tribes and sacred sites such as Chaco Canyon, much of which took place before the passing of the 1990 Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act. After this act passed the University has yet to acknowledge this act or return sacred materials

- xxv) Senator Patterson representing Lobo Parenting and OEO
Letters from them were read by Senator Patterson they are as follows

To Whom It May Concern,

During my experience at the University of New Mexico I have personally encountered barriers and issues when it comes to parenting. I am a single mother, student and employee at the University of New Mexico. Taking on the multiple responsibilities while still paying full tuition with no policy or form of support has left my education vulnerable and in many cases even stressful. I am in support of the resolutions to support parent/parents who attend the University of New Mexico.

Sincerely,

Lillian Sanchez

Lobo Parenting Vice President

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Melanie Maestas and I am a second year graduate student. As the president of one of the first parenting groups on campus, I am in full support of Senator Patterson's resolutions. Being pregnant on campus and not having a close parking spot really affected my success in classes, especially in my third trimester because my feet were swollen and my back ached tremendously. Having designated parking spaces for pregnant women in their third trimester on campus is a great resolution.

Parental leave is also a great resolution that should be part of our University. If we go to other parts of the country most states offer parental leave. Having parental leave at UNM might increase our graduation rates. Furthermore, it is important for both parents to be with their child in such special times of their development. Thank you for your time and I hope these resolutions get approved.

Respectfully,

Melanie Maestas

Lobo Parenting President

To Whom It May Concern:

OEO supports Resolution 9F with the limitation that disabled parking spaces not be used for this purpose so as not to make UNM fall out of compliance with the ADA. That would include that PATS not issue temporary disabled placards, unless the pregnancy requires this due to a physician's recommendation.

Heather Cowan

Office of Equal Opportunity

To Whom It May Concern:

OEO and UNM's Title IX Coordinator (me) completely support Resolution 8F as Title IX absolutely requires all of the points mentioned for pregnant students. Our office is currently working on pregnancy accommodations policy or protocol language as well. OEO also supports the equal application of such a resolution to students of all genders who recently have a child, either through birth or adoption.

Heather Cowan

i) ASUNM Senators

Senator Ansloan On Monday, the Daily Lobo published an article with the headline, “ASUNM spending draws criticism”. Now, the criticism seems to be isolated to the student organization Scribendi. They were and are extremely upset at the way Senate handled their budget request last semester and, as someone who was present at the Senate meeting and as someone in the Honors College who has seen firsthand how impressive their organization is, I agree that their budget process was mishandled. However, in the article, their very isolated experience is contrasted with the breakdown of the 2016 Spring Budget as a whole. I personally feel that while it is an emotionally compelling way to craft an article, it is not responsible to do when one is supposed to be objectively reporting on an issue most UNM students are not familiar with. The Daily Lobo reporting is done in such a way as to lead a reader to believe that we are lining our own pockets with student fees and that is just not consistent with reality. While it is reported accurately that the majority of our Spring Budget went to ASUNM and agencies within ASUNM, the article uses this fact to claim that the money “stays with ASUNM.” Yes, that money is used so that agencies within ASUNM can operate. But when these agencies operate functionally, the student body gets an incredible return on their $20 student fee investment.

That’s not to say that there are no structural issues within ASUNM’s money allocation process that could be fixed. The article points out that we do spend a good amount of money on salaries for a couple of people and perhaps we should look more closely at that. In addition, because we allocate so much money to our agencies, it is imperative that we ensure they are functioning at the highest possible levels and giving all undergraduate students an incredible college experience. It is our job as Senators to hold everyone in ASUNM accountable but it is also the Daily Lobo’s job to uphold journalistic standards and report responsibly. If this article is any indication, only one of us is doing our job well.

- i) Senator O’Connell Week and half for the go out and vote show different their I share it s

American what we feel we leave home our traditions and our churches we cant just go to one down the street we cant bring something like that to school where as other have that option.

- 52) Senator Kirven that campus prides itself on diversity and seal and genocide at graduations I am a young black women where and feeling of those who don't respect and cost should no be thought about or anything like that and if we are going to say we are diverse we should change it
- 53) Senator Ansloan I'm not going to pretend and act as a senator and understand the university and town hall commuter connection .My concern I feel the seal a scapegoat a very expensive one
- 54) Senator Landgraf It is a hard thing and to have to wear it its awful it is cause enough to chane it and represent them
- 55) Senator Patterson last semester I thought they were overreacting and wanted to hear what they have to say and it opened my eyes I haven't struggles and putting your self and had to walk with two men and that killed and rape my ancestors. We need to acknowledge if its making them feel unsafe and we should look and change it
- 56) Senator Midani Marginalizing students the same and if it changes it helps that is not the end of the world
- 57) Senator S. Moore questions
- 58) Senator Brown our seals don't leave forever look at the Friday Night Live shirts. Do you take every survey comes you way weather or not you had the opportunity I think you all have ample time RHA 3000 student joint. So if you want more input you should have got it yourself and your not representing the students.

62) Closing

a) Closing Comments

- i) Senator Williams passion over research hurt when you don't and support if you don't do research trust the finance when you don't do your research
- ii) Senator Patterson thank you so so much you are helping many students you are all amazing senators
- iii) Senator Ansloan thank you I just think we are all hung over mentally but our diversity as a senate is really reassuring for the senate and to be able to hear differing opinions and hearing from people we would not normally not be hearing from
- iv) Senator O'Connell share that video
- v) Senator Brown one of our best meetings generally productive. I just have one comment on gender there are completely inappropriate and not any less safe because I am a women and my beauty was irrelevant in the debate. And comments like those affect people in their well-being and my identity as a women in being invalidated everyday.
- vi) AG Committees are committees you discharge work to a committee does not ever dictate what you have to say at the full senate meeting or your vote at full senate. Do your research and trust in them great by discharge work to for a record not what to do and they have to tell you what to do and its against prop and wrong for Robert rules of order Ironic be nice and be nice all abuse Parli pro and proud and grown a lot and know how to use to be those people who are mean and be nice.
- vii) CD Gabe safe love y'all viii) Senator Ansloan My comments toward The Daily Lobo I hope we take them as an opportunity for us to grow.

b) ASUNM Vice-President Closing

i) We need to work with daily lobo not us against them we want students to know as much as possible about ASUNM. Check your comments we can be a great resource for the undergraduates of UNM and I am proud of you. I will call you out know that being kind goes along way and that being mean is not ok. If you need help writing legislation talk to Senator Brooks or myself and we can get you senators to work with. Thank You

c) Adjournment

i) Meeting Called to Close by Vice-President Feltz at 10:20PM
